

P.B.I.S. Chart

Finally I asked them how to act to get moved to each color. Green: You need to stay good all day by acting politely and being responsible. Blue: You have to do what you're told the whole day. Yellow: You need to do what you're told, pay attention, be nice, and help others. Orange: You don't listen to the teacher. Pink: You have get up and run out of the room and do things without permission. Red: You have to put your hands on someone or use bad or inappropriate language. That is what the kindergarteners think about the P.B.I.S.Chart.

The kids are taking the MAP test on the chromebooks this year. We take it because we don't use i Ready anymore. Kindergarten through 10th grade take the Math and Reading. Only fifth and eighth grades take the Science. We take it three times a year. The beginning is to see where they are and the end is to see what they have grown. It helps the teachers to determine what the kids know by finding their strengths and weaknesses. The MAP test ends before spring break. The MAP test is a great way to help the students show what they know.

Fall Fundraiser

By: Gia Jacobs (4th grade)

The Fall Principal's Fundraiser is important because it helps the school raise money for the students. Principal Brown picks the dates by when the salesmen come and she tries to be the first fundraiser in the district. About seventy-three people bought cookies and magazines in the school. If the chart near the office is full we might get a movie party with popcorn, or a dance party, or she might ask us about what we should do if it is full. If there is extra money they will spend it on the students. The top seller will get a $50 gift card to Toy R Us! The top classroom will get a sundae party with Principal Brown! If two people have the same amount they will both get a prize. The Fall Principal's Fundraiser is doing great!

P.B.I.S. Chart

The kindergarteners are getting used to the P.B.I.S chart or the behavior board. Here's how they feel. Our kindergarteners feel good about the behavior board because they get a prize when they get on yellow. They say that the behavior board is an important part of school because it tells them if they are being good or even bad. The color they get on matters to them because they feel good when they get on green, blue, or yellow. The color that matters the most to them is yellow because if they get on yellow 3 times they get a Fabulous Flamingo Award.

What's Happening in Third Grade

By: Edward James Serdinak (4th grade)

Third grade is doing fantastic this year. They are learning about seeds and how they grow. They are doing a learning process called Research Wednesday. Every Wednesday they research something random. They are getting good grades on their work. Third grade had a blast on learning math on Kahoot!. If third grade had a class pet they would like guinea pig, crab, hamster, dog, cat, or a turtle. They are loving third grade so far this year.
